Visitors to the current La Perouse Museum frequently ask about how La Perouse has changed, and how it continues to change. Many guests moreover have personal connections and recollections on the environs and past events; such as Aboriginal social and political events such as the Survival Day concerts at La Perouse, the annual Mullet Run, Bastille Day, Kurnell to La Perouse ferry, living in the Salvation Army Home, French Naval Ships visiting the Museum, the last tram in 1961, scuba diving off Bare Island in the 1960s with contemporaries of Jacques Cousteau, and other milestones captured through the lens.

The exhibition will comprise 30 to 40 archival images reproduced in Gallery frames (images sourced from RCC, Randwick Historical Society, NPWS and State Library NSW collections) documenting moments and vistas of La Perouse from the 20th and 21st centuries; many of which will be accompanied by first person recollections of that moment or landmark etc. (see APPENDIX A for exemplar images).

The personal recollections will require additional hours for an existing venue casual staff member to assist with the collection; proposed methods will be via a local ad campaign asking for contributions, possible request via Southern Courier, online promotion and targeted interviews with known stakeholders and members of the community.

Value add components include a possible Capturing La Perouse photographic competition in the Community Galleries annexe, and a partnership with the UNSW Epic Story team - this is a research team who create visual "maps" of changing landscapes and online portals exploring the different types of meanings on a particular site.
